Patrick Collins Learns One of Four Soldier Sons Is Dead.

MEMBER OF. OLD 69TH

Second Son Won Chance for Commission Through Coolness in Action.

The courageous philosophy with which American parents have given their sons the cause of liberty is reflected in the statement made yesterday by Patrick Coffins of 165 East Seventy-fifth street, when he learned that his son, John J. Collins, a member of Company H, 165th Infantry, had been killed in action. "Of course, we were all crushed at the news of John's death." said Mr. Collins, with an obvious effort to control his emotions, but when one has four sons serving in France bad news must be expected any time. My three sons en-listed in the old Sixty-ninth at the outbreak of the Mexican trouble and saw service on the border. A fourth was drafted. My youngest son. Daniel, will n be of age and will come under the Bravery Won Him Commission. One of Mr. Collins's sons, Thomas, 23, was recently promoted from private to Second Lieutenant in the 165th Regiment for extricating himself and six company mates from a tight fix during an attack. The group was caught in No Man's Land between a double barrage from both the German and American batteries. Collins, assuming the leadertatteries. Collins assuming the leadership of the party, prevailed upon the other men to lie quiet in a shell crater until the German fire had spent itself. Then he led his companions back to the American lines in safety. For this he was commended by the commanding officer and sent to the Pershing training school, where he got his commission.

chool, where he got his commission. Private Patrick Corrigan, reported in yesterday's casualty list as severely wounded, is one of three brothers in the service. He is 24 and lived with his widowed mother in 119 West Sixtleth street. After the declaration of war by this country he enlisted with the Twelfth Infantry, while his brothers went in for aviation. Three days ago Mrs. Corrigan got a letter from one of Patrick's friends at the front who wrote that Patrick had been gassed and was in the base hospital. "All my sons have gone now," said Mrs. Corrigan yesterday. "It was a ter-rible ordeal to see them, so one by one rible ordeal to see them go one by one. but I would rather have it that way than that they should have been remiss in their duty to their country. I will be a LONES GEORGE. thair they should have been remiss in their duty to their country. I will be a proud mother when they return."

News of the wounding of Robert W. McGrath, 402 North Pearl street, East Orange, was received yesterday by his parameter. We have been remiss in Privates.

They were later transferred to Company G, 195th Infantry. John is 21 and Robert 23. On August 2, the former wrote his mother that he was in the hospital, but would soon be "on the job" again. GERMANS DEPRESSED BY FRENCH STRATEGY Morale Badly Shaken Owing to Artillery Tactics.

By the Associated Press.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, Aug. 23 (delayed). - Further evidence has been gathered that the victories of the Allies have affected considerably the morale of the German troops. The cause of the depression, which is quite general among the prisoners taken recently, is the conclusion that they have reached after comparisons that the Al-lies' artillery tactics are far superior to theirs. They attribute their defeat to the success of the French in encircling their strongest position and in well directed and concentrated artillery fire.

Thus they have been unable to hold even their best sheltered position.
After the surprise caused by the Allies' successful resistance in the middle of July the consternation at the successful counter attacks and the depression caused by the retreats dissensions seem to have arisen between different cle-ments of the German army. These have resulted in bitter recriminations, information concerning which has been collocted recently.

The bulk of the Juvigny plateau is in the hands of the French, who are again on the edge of the battlefield of 1917. To the north lies the Allette Valley. Eight miles eastward is Laffaux Mill and the beginning of Chemin-des-Dames. French cavalry patrols crossed the Allette to-day, although the Germans

SMALL GRAND PIANO

N America today the fine things of life are not restricted to the very wealthy few. The Great Democracy which gives us such untrammeled freedom in the pursuit of all lines of effort makes the possession of beautiful things well within the reach of the cultured many.

In the modern home of refinement, the presence of a piano is as much a matter of course as the dining table.

In the great majority of modern homes, attractive interiors must be effected in comparatively small space—hence the steadily growing demand for the small grand piano. The upright piano, though economical in the matter of space, is much less attractive to the eye than the grand. The full-sized grand, while it possesses great tonal sonority, is quite out of the question in the moderate-sized room.

The Weber Small Grand is the ideal solution for those who want a piano of full, "Grand" tone that will blend with and enhance any artistic interior.

Weber Pianos are distinguished by a tone of lingering purity and rich, distinctive "mezzo" sweetness, by evenness of action, and by a marvelous responsiveness to the touch (a feature that has been especially noted and praised by the world's greatest musi-
